Annual Report Appomattox County Agent Hudgins

These records are most astounding, ons that have far surpassed the agent's expectation and naturally make him feel proud of the Appomattox farmers.

Good Seed— There are 23 farmers growing certified seed stocks which and yellow corn, wheat, barley and potatoes.

Weather conditions again considerably reduced the production of red clover and lespedeza seed rendering an insufficient amount for the county's needs.

Fertilizers— A large per cent of our growers fertilized all crops in their rotation and many of them top-dressed the small grain with nitrate of soda, using phosphate on clovers and grasses seeded in small grain in the spring. The fertilizer used in lieu of conservation payment was 46.6 tons. Triple superphosphate used in lieu of the conservation payment is 52.7 tons.

Tobacco

For more than one-half a century tobacco has been the leading cash crop and is today, however, it is interesting to note the trend in production: in 1900 and 1920 there were more than 5,000 acres of fire-cured tobacco produced in the county, since this period there has been a gradual decline in acreage until this year we produced 3,084 acres of this type which is an increase of 150 acres over 1938. The quality of tobacco is not up to normal due to much rain just before ripening period, however, prices are good and generally the farmers are well pleased. A number of demonstrations were carried on through fertilizers, better seed, and general care. We have an estimated gain in yield of 75 to 90 pounds to the acre.

Tennessee Valley Authority

There are fourteen farmers keeping records in connection with the T. V. A. program. These records show that they have applied this year 42.7 tons of phosphate on 265.0 acres of old pasture, 34.5 acres on new pastures and 253.5 acres of hay land and 5.5 acres alfalfa. Total lime applied on these four-farm tons. Acreage per cent increase from the use of T. V. A. phosphate on pastures is 47 per cent and on hay crops 38.6 per cent as compared to checks on demonstration farms this year based on clippings.

Since 1935, 305.4 acres on these farms have been reclaimed and improved through erosion control methods such as gully repair work, healing over and reseeding galls, soil saving dams and waterways.

Rural Electrification

Committee were appointed by the agent last year to make necessary surveys in the various communities. This work is well under way and during the year 34.5 miles of R.E.A. line has been completed, making a total of 50.5 miles serving 157 homes. The agent gave nine days to this program.

Livestock

Seventeen farmers purchased 27 purebred animals during the year. Twenty-six days were given to livestock program such as proper feeding, housing, docking, castrating, testing all breeds of livestock for internal and external parasites, vaccinating for prevention of black leg, lice, also treating 11 animals for milk fever.

Poultry

Time given to this line of work consisted chiefly of better housing, baby chick management, feeding, culling, sanitation and treating for external and internal parasites.

Tours

The agent assisted in 8 adult tours with attendance of 526; 4 4-H club tours with attendance of 168.

Other Activities

Report of County Home Agent

The annual report of Miss Ella Smith, Appomattox county home demonstration agent, is given below:

There are 1,535 white homemakers in Appomattox county, and of these 249 are being reached directly as members of home demonstration groups and 945 reached and helped indirectly.

Improvement in phases of clothing were studied by groups as their major project, which resulted in the making of 1,591 dresses, 1,560 other garments, remodeling of 712 garments, 195 improved in grooming practices and 157 improved in posture. The leaders estimated savings due to the clothing program were $2,638.83 to the women of the county.

As a result of the canning and food preservation projects, 11,883 quarts of tomatoes were canned; 14,707 quarts of other vegetables; 15,377 quarts of fruits and juices; 4,427 quarts of meats; 10,120 quarts of jellies, preserves, pickles, and relishes canned. The approximate cost of canning done was estimated at $2,524.63, and the approximate value at $12,637.55.

Fruits and vegetables dried amounted to 2,315 pounds as an estimate, and the value of $1,283.65. Vegetables were given to agricultural engineering, garden and small fruit, horticulture, insect and disease control, rodent control, farm security, farm credit and marketing.

Bacterial Wilt and Soft Rot Reported In Other States

Blacksburg, Jan. 10.- A new disease of Irish potato is causing much concern in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida and several northeastern states. It threatens to become one of the most serious disease problems of this crop.

As far as is known, this disease has not appeared in Virginia up to the present time, though it may be present without having been reported. It does not, research workers believe, carry over in the soil from one year to the next—it's only source is infected seed potatoes.

Ordinarily this disease cannot be recognized in the field until a few weeks or a few days before the vines mature. Such causes a wilting and mottling and finally death of the leaflets, with no indication of the diseased condition on the roots until the lower stem is split open; then only slight yellowish brown coloring is present in the withy tissue. The most conclusive evidence of disease in the tubers is a lemon yellow discoloration within the tuber, followed by a softening of the tissues.

Cutting the tubers shows a mealy, pithy, yellowish brown breakdown of the entire vascular ring, occasionally extending clear to the surface of the potato, which frequently cracks open. Usually there is little or no indication of the disease in the field until digging time, when the presence of decayed tubers is observed.

The disease is spread to healthy potatoes during the digging season and subsequent handling. Bacteria from decayed potatoes enter healthy tubers through bruises, cuts and other breaks in the skin. The cutting knife is a good spreader of this disease. The disease also spreads in the field from row to row, apparently through drainage water. Contaminated culturing implements, diggers, sacks, barrels, truck beds and storage rooms may spread the disease.

Control: Plant only certified seed. Since there is no known source of the bacterial wilt and soft rot organisms than contaminated and infected tubers, our chief concern in growing losses is the matter of wilt-free seed.

Refusing to plant "selected seed" and other forms of non-certified potatoes becomes all the more important now because, in addition to higher content of virus diseases, Fusarium wilt and black leg may carry, uncertified seed may be sent fields or storages that are free of the bacterial wilt and soft rot organism.

Production Credit Report Is Released

M. O. Wilson, president of the Production Credit Corporation, of Baltimore, addressed the stockholders of the Farmville Production Credit Association on the occasion of their 6th annual meeting held in the Farmville high school auditorium, on January 4th. He called the attention of the stockholders to the unselfish service being rendered by their own organization and congratulated them on the success which had been attained over the last six years.

C. G. Ashmore, reporting for the board of directors, advised the stockholders that the membership had increased from 107 in 1934 to 478 at the close of last year's business; the amount loaned from $35,000 to $271,000; the stock owned by members from $1,800 to $14,000, and the reserves to protect members' investment from $750 to $15,200.

H. E. Boswell, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the association, rendered a complete operating statement which he advised the stockholders that while the operating expenses of the association had increased in 1939 over 1938 less than $100 the income had increased about $3,000. According to Mr. Boswell's report, the association had net earnings for the past year in the amount of $4,692, which had been transferred to reserves. Mr. Boswell also called the attention of the stockholders to the fact that of the $350,000 loaned to farmers during the past six years the association had a net charge-off in the the amount of $117.

The Farmville Production Credit Association makes loans to eligible farmers covering all legitimate short time credit requirements. In addition to the main office at Farmville, the association's territory is served by a field office at Lynchburg.

Kilpatrick Manager of Quality Hatchery

Mr. M. C. Kilpatrick has recently become manager of Quality Hatchery Co., Lynchburg, Virginia. Mr. Kilpatrick has had wide experience, covering every phase of the hatchery business. He studied at Penn State College, and Ohio State University, where he was instructor in poultry husbandry. For several years he was executive secretary of the Virginia State Poultry Federation.

This hatchery is prepared to serve the baby chick requirements of this area.

VALUE OF GARDEN

A good half-acre garden should produce at least $150 worth of vegetables for the farm table. At one-third of this figure, or $50 per garden, the total amount of annual value of the farm gardens in Virginia would be more than $9,000,000. This figure does not include the gardens in villages, towns and cities.

Appomattox would be a fine town for a new factory location.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

"Today's popularity of Doan's Pills after many years of world-wide use, proves that they can be accepted as evidence of satisfactory and favorable public opinion. Ask any of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under scientific laboratory conditions."

These physicians, too, know the importance of advertising you read, the discovery of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorders of kidney function and for relief of backache due to such disorders.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste matter from the blood stream, fewer suffering needlessly from the miseries and distressing ailments of the whole body when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that kidneys need help. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won worldwide acclaim than on something less favorably known. At all stores.
